"With Peary in the Arctic." It has been Mr. MacMillan's fondest hope, ever since he was old enough to read and understand books on polar read and understand books on polar exploration, that some day he might be a member of an expedition to the North pole. In his library at Worcester scademy he has all the obtainable becks on Arctic work, and he knows them well enough to tell the contents of each in much detail. The enthusiasm with which he joined Commander Peary's party in June, 1908, was wonderful to see.

derful to see.

Of all who assisted on the famous "dash to the pole," no one, not even Peary himself, is better fitted to tell of it than Professor MacMillan. Besides his enthusiastic eloquence, the plotures are truly wonderful. At the Broadway theater, Thursday evening, March. 21

BROADWAY THEATER. The Soul Kiss.

Much interest is bound to be cen-tered in the announcement that "The Soul Kiss," the delightful musical com-

Soul Kiss," the delightful musical comedy by Harry B. Smith and Maurice Levi, which has to its credit a run of three hundred consecutive performances in New York, has been booken for an engagement at the Broadway theater tonight.

Harry B. Smith has provided a witty book and the story is well told, while Maurice Levi's music is of the typical tuneful Levi variety. There are several songs that are in their way little gems of harmony, melody and humor. The orchestrations of the finales are thoroughly descriptive, and are written in Composer Levi's best vein. A cast of sixty well known funmakers will be found in The Soul Kiss. Julian Mitchell has staged the production, which, owing to the nature of the story, offers exceptional opportunities for lavish stage effects.

THE AUDITORIUM.

The vaudeville bill at this popular playhouse for the first three days of this week is composed of talent, skil-ful art, and hilarious comedy. The latter is found in the Horseshoe three, who present a sketch which is a scream from start to finish and wins much applause. The Irish character taken by the senior member of this clever trio is well portrayed in every movement, and his witty talk and pleasant manner brought him into immediate favor.

pleasant manner brought him into immediate favor.

As far as difficult steps and finished technique are concerned, O'Rourke & O'Rourke have it on all of them yet seen here in the dancing line. Every tap of the shoe on the floor is heard as distinctly as though it were the tap of a drum. The singing of the younger O'Rourke is also good.

Shaker, "the world's most wonderful boy ventriloquist." is apparently not wrongly billed. So accomplished is this boy in the ventriloquist's art that the slightest movement of his lips is undiscernible when he walks through the audience with his dummy figure singing Put on Your Old Grey Bonnet.

A thoroughly sensational and thrill-ing picture that delighted the large audience at the Ereed theater last evening was entitled Saved from the Tide, and was one of the most suc-cessful pictures on the programme. It tells a strong story of life in a coun-try village, and shows the school theet-ing and the appointment of a new teacher in the district, which causes much friction. Friends of the ousted teacher meet and agree to wreak their teacher in the district, which causes much friction. Friends of the ousted teacher meet and agree to wreak their vengeance on the newcomr, and attack him while he is on his way to school, and thinking he is killed, they place his body upon the beach, thinking the tide will carry it out to sea. News of the assault reaches the village and a posse is formed and a search for the culprits begun. The leader is captured and a confession forced from him and the location of the body discovered. A tremendously exciting horseback ride down the beach follows, and the unconscious man is saved from the tide.

The beautiful Biograph story of life in the old southwest, entitled The Thread of Destiny, shows some bewildering glimpses of Callifornia scenery and carries a strong story of the love affairs of a Spanish orphan girl.

Mr. Ray sings two illustrated song hits, entitled Moonlight Makes Me Lonesome, and the opular craze, Carrie Marry Harry.

BABY'S PITIFUL CASE

"Our baby when two months old was suffering with terrible eczema from head to foot, all over her body. The baby looked just like a skinned rabbit. We were unable to put clothes on her. At first it seemed to be a few mattered pimples. They would break the skin and peel off leaving the underneath skin red as though it were scalds. Then a few more pimples would appear and spread all over the body leaving the baby all raw without skin from head to foot. But on top of her head there appeared a heavy scab a quarter of an inch thick. It was awful to see so small a baby look as she did. Imagine! The doctor was afraid to put his hands to the child. We tried several doctors' remedies but all failed. Then we decided to try Cuticura. After three days you could see the body gaining a little skin. Now the baby is four months old. She is a fine picture of a fat little baby and all is well. We used Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent. Mrs. Joseph Kossmann, 7 St. John's Place, Ridgewood Heights, L. L. N. FOETRY. ENDURANCE.

How much the heart may bear and yet not break!

How much the flesh may suffer and not die!

I question much, if any pain or ache of soul or body brings our end more nigh.

Death chooses his own time—till that is come

All evils may be borne.

We shrink and shudder at the surgeon's knife.
Each nerve recoiling from the crue!
steel.
Whose edge seems searching for the quivering life—
Yet to our sense the bitter pangs reveal
That still, although the trembling flesh be torn.
This also may be borne.

We see a worrow rising in our way,
And try to fice from the approaching ill,
We seek some small escape—we seek
and pray,
But when the blow falls—then our hearts are still—
Not that the pain is of its sharpness shorn— But think it can be borne.

We wind our life about another's We hold it closer-dearer than our Anon it faints and falls in deadly striffs.

Leaving us stunned and stricken and alone;
But—sh—we do not die with those we This also can be borne.

Behold, we live through all Chines famine, thirst, Bereavement, pain—all grief and mis-All wos-and sorrow-life inflicts its On soul and body, but we cannot dia, Though we be sick and tired and faint and worn—
Lo! All things can be borne.

THE BLUE JAY.

Like brave knight's banneret His blue flag across the snow, Plaunting his plumes where dedary And silver birches grow.

This cock-a-hoop defiant squire.
Ruffling his feathers for the frag.
Shouting his challenge shrilly down.
Blusters along his way.

Gay northland cavaller! Chatt'ring, boist'rous, reletering. In the teath of the sharp East wind Your harsh defiance fling! But see, mid thick, dark pines.

Blue glancing 'gainst the fleecy ency.

Thy busy mates pluck the with ring Safe hid from the gales that hiew.

Bithe ruffler of the wild!

When hunger calls, the strident voices cease,
Slow winter yields; spring's in the bud.

And everywhere the call to peace.
